Every human-being has a visible part (body) and an invisible part (mind and spirit). To make the visible part healthy an experienced healer reaches into the invisible part that holds authentic codes and patterns, and aligns them to be balanced. The same approach is good for relationships, and life circumstances.

What is a session of 'Holistic Matrix Therapy' like

The session starts with a conversation during which your issues and intentions are shaped out. Based on those the modalities of treatment are chosen and tailored for you. It could be energy work, Holistic Therapy of NLP, Angel Healing, or, most often, all of the above.

Holistic Therapy of NLP is used to change and improve your emotional issues, relationships, and life situations. You will communicate with your subconscious mind that is responsible for over 90% of your decisions. It has all the resources we need, and our task is to find them, and start using for your own benefit. In other words, the track you habitually take to reach the results of your life will be changed to a better one. It works with such emotions and feelings as fear, anxiety, anger, irritation, frustration. Some of them had been useful in childhood, or adolescence, but became an obstacle later. You will learn to release negative patterns or transform them into helpful and supportive ones.

Energy work is applied to address discomfort and imbalance of your physical body and energy system. The latest achievements in energy healing are Matrix Energetics and The Gift method. Both of them are aimed at releasing the disease energy and pain that stuck in your subtle fields and affect the natural health. Replacing them with harmonious vibrations on the cellular level will make all body systems resume the regular function.

Angel Healing is actually turned on before a client arrives. Information about client's problems is known by some way to the Team of Divine Messengers, who is called upon. Your Higher Self as a Team member participates in providing the best solutions for your needs. Often clients feel a Divine touch and guidance as a bliss that is impossible to describe, and they cannot hold back sweet tears of complete happiness.

What result has been achieved? A great relief of pain and chronic disease; help to emotional conditions and patterns of behavior related to them. Also, a significant healing support for all systems of your body, along with harmonizing changes in all areas – physical, emotional, spiritual. Working on subtle levels, this healing session improves your overall wellness.
